

One day in February, two fellows calling themselves Shoigu and Gerasimov came to town to see the Tsar.

The Charlatans coming to town.

They proposed to spread the peace of the rotting Empire, the so called “Muscovy Mir”, by launching a Special Military Operation on the most beautiful and Brotherly of countries – a land of milk and honey, and not to mention toilets, washing machines, sneakers, chocolate spread and raccoons. For good measure they would even destroy its culture and people to protect them from themselves.

This Magical Country would be invisible to everyone who was unfit for the job he held, or who was very simple in character.

